BCCNM Indigenous Cultural Safety, Cultural Humility and Anti-Racism Companion Guide \(PDF\) and Educational Videos

BCCNM engaged Indigenous registrants, leaders, and clients throughout the healthcare system along with health authority and academic partners to inform and develop a companion guide and, with CPSBC, a series of educational videos to support the understanding and application of the practice standard.

BCCNM recently developed From Awareness to Action: Indigenous Cultural Safety, Cultural Humility, and Anti-Racism, the first phase of their corresponding learning series to expand on the videos and further support the application of the standard.

Courses:

San'yas Indigenous Cultural Safety Training Program

Administered by Indigenous Health department at the Provincial Health Services Authority, the San'yas Indigenous Cultural Safety Training Program is becoming a standard program for all healthcare providers. They offer two types of training: Core and Advanced. Some of the Core Trainings have been designed for people working in specific sectors (including health care) and specific provinces (including B.C.). The Advanced Training builds on the learnings in the Core Trainings.

Indigenous Canada (University of Alberta)

This free, self-paced 12-lesson Massive Open Online Course from the faculty of Native Studies explores complex experiences Indigenous peoples face today from a historical and critical perspective highlighting national and local Indigenous-settler relations. The Indigenous Canada course topics include the fur trade and other exchange relationships, land claims and environmental impacts, legal systems and rights, political conflicts and alliances, Indigenous political activism, contemporary Indigenous life, and art and its expressions. Supplement your weekly learning by watching Indigenous Canada with Dan Levy on YouTube. There is one video discussion for each lesson.

Cancer Care Ontario's Indigenous Relationship and Cultural Safety Course Series

These free, self-paced courses were designed for individuals working with First Nations, Inuit, Métis and urban Indigenous people. The courses support a call to action made in the 2015 Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada report.

Webinars:

Indigenous Cultural Safety (ICS) Collaborative

The ICS Collaborative Learning Series are webinars focused on Indigenous cultural safety. The series is guided by an Advisory Circle of Indigenous and non-Indigenous leaders across Canada. It is designed to provide a provincial, national and international platform to address a broad range of issues related to the ways in which Indigenous people experience and intersect with systems (i.e., healthcare, justice, education, and child welfare). While promoting interesting and relevant dialogue, the series encourages critical thinking by bringing people together to consider social justice issues and engage in critical enquiry.

The recordings of 16 webinars vary in length from 1-2 hours. View them on the ICS Collaborative website.

Len Pierre Consulting

A series of one-hour webinars on topics of interest. More topics are added regularly to the YouTube channel.

Other Resources:

Indian Residential School History and Dialogue Centre, UBC

The Indian Residential School History and Dialogue Centre (IRSHDC) at UBC addresses the colonial legacy of residential schools and other policies imposed by the Canadian government on Indigenous Peoples and ensures this history is acknowledged, examined and understood within the UBC community. It has several learning resources worth exploring.

Review these learning resources at Indian Residential Schools.

First Nations Health Authority (FNHA)

The FNHA Cultural Safety and Humility webpage contains a Cultural Safety and Humility Action Webinar Series to support the development of tools and skills for advancing cultural safety and humility and understanding and integrating this work into practice and interaction with First Nations client, along with posters, booklets, frameworks, and other resources.

Health Quality BC Culturally Safe Engagement

Health Quality BC has developed resources for clinicians, leaders, administrators, researchers and anyone who wants to engage Indigenous patient partners in culturally safe ways.

These resources were in part developed at an event held as part of their work leading “What Matters to You?” (an international initiative started in Norway in 2014) in British Columbia. Indigenous patient partners were invited to tell them what matters to them when participating in a culturally safe patient engagement opportunity.
