Registration/Reinstatement Q&A

Updated February 2025

Unless otherwise specified, practice resources can be found here: Dietitians – Practice Resources | CHCPBC. These resources appear in bold in the following Q&A.

Q1: If I'm having trouble renewing my registration, what should I do?

A: If you have any problems with registration renewal contact the College before proceeding to payment. Your registration renewal must be completed successfully on or before 11:59:59 pm on March 31, otherwise you may not use the title Registered Dietitian and practice dietetics on April 1.

Q2: What if I miss notification of registration renewal? Do I have to pay the late fee if I didn't know about the renewal deadline?

The deadline for registration renewal is March 31 at midnight. A late fee is incurred upon late renewal, whether you feel you were made aware of renewal deadlines or not. If notice of renewal was missed, it is possible that you:

- Are not registered with the college (practicing illegally),
- moved or changed email addresses, but have not updated this contact information in your College profile,
- changed jobs and/or employers but haven't updated current workplace information in your online profile,
- forgot your user ID and/or password and cannot access your online profile, or
- "unsubscribed" from the address that delivers CDBC correspondence.

Q3: What is the difference between Full, Temporary, Non-Practicing status of registration?

	Full	Temporary	Non-Practicing	Resigned
Can I practice?	✓	✓	✗	✗

Do I need to complete my CCP/JED?	✓	✓*	✗	✗
Do I receive correspondence from the college?	✓	✓	✓	✗
Can I be part of a committee?	✓	✓	✓	✗
What kind of signature can I use?	RD	RD(t)	RD (NP)	---

Q4: What is the purpose of the requirement to agree to the Statutory Declarations every year during registration renewal?

Statutory Declarations are statements of truth that all registrants must fulfill as part of registration. Because registration expires on March 31 annually, the Statutory Declarations must also be agreed to with each registration renewal. These statements declare that the registrant will:

- always practice dietetics in compliance with the Health Professions Act, the Dietitians Regulation and the College bylaws.
- have professional liability insurance for all practice settings, in an amount of not less than two million dollars per occurrence.
- maintain competence with dietetic practice by completing and submitting a CCP yearly.
- submit a Consent to Criminal Record Recheck to the College and complete the Jurisprudence Examination (JED) for Dietitians every 5 years as required.

Q5: Is the San'yas Indigenous Cultural Safety (ICS) Training Course a requirement for registration with the College?

No, the San'yas Indigenous Cultural Safety (ICS) Training Course is not a requirement for registration. However, registrants may include the ICS Training Course as a learning activity if this training contributes to their CCP goals. Refer to San'yas ICS Training and FNHA Cultural Humility for more information.

In addition, registrants are encouraged to visit the CSH page to review content and information about the ICSH and Anti-Racism Practice Standard.

Unless otherwise specified, practice resources can be found here: Dietitians – Practice Resources | CHCPBC. These resources appear in bold.

Q6: I am considering renewing my registration in the “non-practicing” class. What will this mean for me?

Registrants with “non-practicing” status are permitted to use the title “Registered Dietitian – Non-Practicing” and the initials “RD (NP)”. Registrants with non-practicing status must not practice dietetics, including any volunteer dietetic work. RD(NP)s may vote at general meetings and may serve on committees. They are kept informed of College activities and continue to receive regular communications from the College. RD(NP)s are identified on the public register of Dietitians as “non-practicing.”

Q7: Why do I have to provide my employment information? How do I inform the College of a change in employer?

In accordance to section 21(2) of the Health Professions Act, “*the registrar must maintain a register setting out, for every person granted registration under this Act, the following (a) the person's name, whether the person is a registrant or a former registrant, and, if the person is a registrant, the person's business address and business telephone number...”

The bylaws require that “a registrant must immediately notify the registrar of any change in address, name or any other registration information previously provided to the registrar.” If you have changed your employer, or any other Registration information, you may inform the college of any of these changes by updating the information in your online profile.

To add a new employer to your profile:

- Sign into your online account, go to “Update my Employer”
- Click on “Add Employer” and select from the drop-down list. (If your employer is not in the list, or the information about your employer is incorrect, please contact the College.)
- Answer the “Primary Employer?” question by choosing “yes” or “no”
- Select the type of “work setting” from the drop-down list and enter employment “start date” (and “end date” where applicable)
- Select “Save” to submit.

To change current employer information:

- From the Employment screen, select "Edit"
- Update "Primary Employer", "Work Setting", "Start Date" and "End Date" information
- Select "Save" to submit.

To remove an employer from your profile:

- From the Employment screen, select “Remove”
- Select “Continue” when answering the question “Are you sure you want to remove this employer?”

Unless otherwise specified, practice resources can be found here: Dietitians – Practice Resources | CHCPBC. These resources appear in bold.

Q8: What are some considerations for me, as a registrant, if I am registered with another regulatory college in another profession?

The college doesn't have any restrictions regarding dual registrations. You should inform your other regulatory College of your dual registration as scopes of practice may be narrow/limited in one profession as compared to the other. It is also important for you to consider situations where you may have to manage separation of roles/scope in meeting Dietitian specific legislation, policies and guidelines. You are encouraged to contact other regulatory organizations to find out if they set restrictions regarding dual registration as well (may differ among health professions).

Q9: What are some considerations for me, as a registrant, if I take a job in an unregulated healthcare profession? Can I use my RD credentials?

In BC, health care professions can be regulated or unregulated. You can read about regulated health care professions here.

Is your side business or existing profession regulated? If so, please refer above to Q11 of the Registration Q&A.

Is your side business or existing profession unregulated? Read on!

This Q&A has been designed to help you think on how to best address the regulatory responsibilities of a dietitian when also working in an unregulated role. Use of an unregulated job title (for example, “certified herbal therapist”, “certified personal trainer”, “coach”) in combination with your Dietitian title will mean that the responsibilities you have as regulated health professional will likely limit the scope and actions attached to the unregulated profession. This is especially true since clients and other members of the public can likely identify that you have two distinct professions, linked by one professional... you. Here are some considerations:

a) Are you marketing yourself and your business(es) appropriately in the context of College requirements?

1. You may not practice dietetics using your unregulated professional title.
2. Key points to consider the college Bylaw. Dietitians must:
 1. not market and sell services and products that are unrelated to dietetics.
 2. offer alternatives to a specific product or brand, in addition to the one you are endorsing or associated with.

Unless otherwise specified, practice resources can be found here: Dietitians – Practice Resources | CHCPBC. These resources appear in bold.

3. understand the definition of marketing. This definition is also used in the Marketing Standards.
 3. Review the Marketing Standards, Social Media Guidelines, and Testimonial Position Statement. When advertising both your regulated and unregulated businesses, best practices outlined by Ad Standards Canada Disclosure Guidelines are applicable to both your regulated and unregulated businesses.
- Are you avoiding conflict of interest situations?
 1. Review the Conflict of Interest and Sales Policy in the context of having two distinct businesses in two different professions. Your Dietitian title can only be used for dietetic services.
 2. Are you keeping sales separated from counselling? Per Conflict of Interest and Sales Policy 3(b), there is an expectation for you to keep any dietetic product sales separate from therapeutic care in order to maintain trust and integrity in your professional relationship. This can be expanded to include the requirement to keep your regulated and unregulated businesses separate.
 - Be aware of the expectations of pursuing a therapeutic relationship between you and your client. Review Where's the Line? Professional Boundaries in Therapeutic Relationships, keeping in mind that if your clients have the potential to access you in both of your professions, the innate power imbalance between practitioner and client exists in both circumstances, and these principles apply to both of your professional roles.
 - Be familiar with the Code of Ethics to which Dietitians are held. Be aware of situations where your professional integrity could be interpreted as being compromised.
 - Are you aware that the College has the authority to investigate registrants for on and off-duty conduct? In this context, “off-duty” is interpreted as time when you are (1) conducting personal business on-line, and (2) when you are conducting business using your other professional title. Please see Q3 of the Social Media Q&A for more details.
 - As with any area of practice for a dietitian, it is pertinent to ensure you are providing evidence-informed recommendations. Refer to the Evidence-Informed Practice Q&A for more information. It is also important to consider possible allergic reactions to any ingredients or to be aware of any drug-nutrient interactions, in addition to contraindications for use in certain populations and food safety issues. Given that many herbal products and supplements may not have an NPN, you should consider that the robustness of the studies and safety data is likely lacking in many of the products you may access in your unregulated profession. You should familiarize yourself with the NPN legislation.

Unless otherwise specified, practice resources can be found here: Dietitians – Practice Resources | CHCPBC. These resources appear in bold.

- Refer to the Private Practice Resource for information on considerations for setting up a private practice. With regards to licensing or incorporating your business(es), the College doesn't have any guidance on how to set up your businesses, nor whether you need a license or incorporation. You could start at this BC government website for more information.
- You may also want to refer to the Decision Tool for New Aspects of Dietetic Practice to aid you when reflecting on questions you have while balancing two professional roles, one regulated, and the other unregulated.

This is not meant to be an exhaustive list of considerations and the hope is that you will be in touch with the College when you have a question or concern about how to proceed in your dietetic practice.

Q10: What are some considerations for me if I work as a dietitian, but decide to take on extra work in a job completely unrelated to health care (for example, bookkeeping)?

Many of the points in Q9 pertain to you in your unrelated business:

- Best practices outlined by Ad Standards Canada Disclosure Guidelines are applicable to both your regulated and unrelated business ventures.
- Review the Conflict of Interest and Sales Policy in the context of having two distinct businesses in two different professions. Your Dietitian title can only be used for dietetic services. In this scenario, you would remain registered with the CHCPBC for your job as a dietitian. You would NOT be allowed to use your title for your unrelated job, nor would you be permitted to practice dietetics in that unrelated job.
- Be familiar with the Code of Ethics standards to which Dietitians are held. Be aware of situations where your professional integrity could be interpreted as being compromised.
- In the Social Media Guidelines, as with the Marketing Bylaws, which continue to apply to you, as a registrant of the College, any social media accounts that are not specific to your dietetic role, can be considered as “personal accounts”. It is always possible for members of the public to connect your professional account and your personal account(s). With that lens, the following sections of the guidelines can help inform you regarding your online presence:
 - Professional regulators, such as the CHCPBC have the authority to investigate and discipline registrants for off-duty conduct where a sufficiently negative impact on the profession and the public's interest can be demonstrated.
 - 1a. Keep professional and personal social media accounts separate. Use professional language on personal pages since they are accessible to members of the public. It is important to emphasize clear separation of your businesses and provide clear disclosure to the public on your roles.

Unless otherwise specified, practice resources can be found here: Dietitians – Practice Resources | CHCPBC. These resources appear in bold.

- 4b. Assume all content on the internet is public, permanent, and accessible to all.
- 4g. Refrain from using professional titles and initials or making references to being a member of the profession when representing personal views.

Please reach out the CHCPBC if you have any questions about your specific circumstance.

Q11: What are my options for registration renewal if I am planning to go on leave?

If you are currently a full registrant, you will remain a full registrant until registration expiry date on March 31.

Please see your options for registration below:

1. Renew your registration in full between March 1 and 31 after completing your annual CCP.

- Nothing changes for this option
- You will continue to receive all communications from the College
- You can continue to use title “RD” or “Dietitian” as well as work in any dietetic field.

2. Renew as Non-Practicing (NP) between March 1 and 31 (option available to Full registrants only).

- You will not be required to complete an annual CCP for this option (see Q9 of the CCP Q&A).
- You will not be able to practice as a dietitian or use RD as a title. The RD(NP) title is allowed.
- You will continue to receive all communications from the College such as newsletters and memos.
- You will need to complete a reinstatement application at least one month before returning to work. This can be done at any point throughout the year, and requires that you provide a criminal record check, updated CCP, and reinstatement application, registration fees, and a notarized statutory declaration.
- Note the implications of being registered as NP for up to 3 years, 3-6 years, and beyond 6 years here under the Reinstatement accordion.

3. Resign from College for $0 by March 31 (option available for all dietitian registration types).

Unless otherwise specified, practice resources can be found here: Dietitians – Practice Resources | CHCPBC. These resources appear in bold.

- You will not be required to complete an annual CCP for this option (see the CCP Q&A).
- You will have an inactive status and you will appear inactive on the public register,
- You will not receive any communications from the College.
- Plan to complete a reinstatement application at least one month before returning to work (see explanation in point #2).
- To resign, please login to your online account and select "not renewing" and follow the prompts to confirm resignation.

Registration fees change depending on when you are applying for registration as well as the type of registration you select. You can view the schedule of fees on the Bylaw page of the website. Here you can find the most up-to-date fees for full registration, non-practicing registration, and reinstatement application. Fees are subject to change by the Board of Directors and reviewed yearly.

Q12: I need to get my tax receipts for this past year, or for any previous year. Can you help?

Log into your SkilSure account. Scroll down to 'Online Services' and select 'Receipts'. Select 'Tax' and then, in the drop down, select the tax year. Right click on the receipt page and select 'Print', then select 'Save as PDF'. If you would like the college to complete this task for you, please note that you will be charged a $27 fee for this service, payable through Online Services. Email the CHCPBC for more information.

Q13: I am a former dietitian with the College. Can I renew/reinstate?

Yes. There are conditions to reinstatement that are dependent upon the length of time you have been off the register. Refer to the requirements listed here under the Reinstatement accordion.

Q14: I am reinstating and need to complete a CCP before I can start working. Please help! (note: several smaller questions are answered within this response).

Completing the CCP for Reinstatement within 3 years

Reinstating from a resigned or non-practicing status, requires completion of an updated CCP. The college is required to ensure registrants are practicing safely, competently, and ethically, and there is no exception for a former registrant who is returning to practice.

It is important to note that you should plan to complete your reinstatement application at least one month before you plan to return to work.

Unless otherwise specified, practice resources can be found here: Dietitians – Practice Resources | CHCPBC. These resources appear in bold.

You can access the CCP Reinstatement Video for more information (note this video refers to legacy CDBC, but the content remains relevant).

CCP Report Timeline

Your CCP report can include your learning activities during resignation and any activities planned for your return to work.

Staff at the college are looking at your CCP to assess that your practice is current and safe, as you reinstate your registration and return to practice.

Therefore, the timeline you report on depends on:

1. If you have been able to complete some learning activities while resigned, the means of which have satisfied a dietetic-related goal, you can report on these retrospectively. Examples might include that you went on maternity (or other) leave and
 - continued to review meeting minutes from dietitians' meeting at your place of employment;
 - completed literature reviews or kept up to date on publications and best practice in an area that interests you;
 - undertook activities to keep up your skill and competence (which do not include actively practicing dietetics while resigned). These can include informal discussion with colleagues.
2. If you have not done any learning during your time off, you will be looking forward. You will make goals that you plan to achieve upon your return to work. Examples might include:
 - Planned job shadowing or on the job training with a colleague;
 - Completion of case studies or consultation with a colleague for certain areas of practice (for example, activities that require Restricted Activities);
 - Review of best practice, guidelines/policies that have been updated during your absence.

Note: if you will be registering with Restricted Activities, you must include goals for EN/PN, as outlined in 'Self- Assessment Relative to Standards of Practice' under the Continuing Competence Program Accordion.

CCP Reporting Year

Here is an example. You have resigned on April 1, 2024. In July 2024, you wish to reinstate. You start an application for reinstatement within 3 years with the College and access your 2025 CCP. You determine how your goals and learning activities will be reported (ie., will you be looking back to report on learning you undertook April – July 2024, or will you look forward (July 2024 – March 31, 2025), to determine the learning you will be undertaking to stay current and practice safely?

Unless otherwise specified, practice resources can be found here: Dietitians – Practice Resources | CHCPBC. These resources appear in bold.

You thereby fill out this information in your 2025 CCP in July of 2024. Upon assessment, you are reinstated. Your 2025 CCP stays open and available for you to update until March 31, 2025. When you renew your registration between March 1 and 31, 2025, you submit your final 2025 CCP for that registration year.

Carrying CCP Goals to Another Year

In keeping with the example above, you wish to bring a goal from your previous CCP into your current CCP. It is acceptable to do this. To do this, you can look at a read-only version of your previously completed CCP, by logging into SkilSure and the CCP. Follow the instructions in the CCP Q&A.

Your current open CCP is blank until you begin to populate it, first by completing the Self-Assessment and selecting the same standard/indicator of practice as the previous CCP learning report. You can then copy and paste the wording of your goal from one CCP into the next.

You can also view this explanation in the Step by Step CCP video.

Q15: I have just completed renewal, but my updated status isn't showing on the public register.

You can view your current status on the Public Register at any time.

Note that the entry reflects your current status as of TODAY, with an expiry of March 31 of this year. On April 1, the Public Register will be updated to reflect the renewal you just completed.

Unless otherwise specified, practice resources can be found here: Dietitians – Practice Resources | CHCPBC. These resources appear in bold.
